Effective Programs to Treat Depression in Older Adults: Implementation Strategies for Community Agencies

May 19-20, 2008

PURPOSE
The purpose of this conference is to provide professionals of the public health, aging services, and mental health networks with implementation strategies for effective depression screening and management interventions for older adults.

CONTENT
The nation’s public health and mental health networks, and the national network of state and area agencies on aging and other senior service organizations supported through the Older Americans’ Act place a priority on developing and evaluating interventions for older adults and disseminating and sustaining effective interventions in community settings. Given that depression is a key health issue for older adults, this conference will focus on the current evidence related to interventions for depression screening and management, and strategies to reach community-based older adults through a variety of settings where they live and congregate.

FORM
This dynamic program features multiple tracks and ample networking opportunities for sharing depression-related programs, practices and services, and materials. Plenary sessions will address scientific evidence related to recommended screening instruments and interventions, including depression care management, Cognitive Behavioral Therapy, and Problem-Solving Treatment. These large group sessions will provide an overview of tools and programs, and offer concrete strategies for community-based settings. Concurrent small group presentations with roundtable discussions will allow for idea exchange, networking, and collaboration. These discussions will address issues and challenges related to the implementation of evidence-based depression programs and will be facilitated by representatives from organizations with experience using these interventions and screening instruments with diverse populations of older adults.

CDC ROLE AND SPONSORSHIP
This conference receives primary funding support from CDC’s Healthy Aging Program within the Division of Adult and Community Health of the National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion. The Healthy Aging Program promotes a focus on healthy aging across a variety of CDC programs addressing specific diseases, conditions, and risk factors, and promotes the visibility and importance of older adult health at the national, state, and local levels. This conference aligns well with the Program’s goal to enhance the capacity of public health agencies and the aging services network to increase the awareness and adoption of evidence-based programs to promote health and quality of life for older adults.

CDC’S HEALTHY AGING RESEARCH NETWORK
As part of CDC’s Prevention Research Centers (PRC) Program, the Healthy Aging Research Network (PRC-HAN) helps to meet these goals by working to better understand the determinants of healthy aging in older adult populations, to identify interventions that promote healthy aging, and to assist in translating public health research into sustainable community-based programs. The University of Washington Health Promotion Research Center serves as the Lead Center for the PRC-HAN, a consortium of nine universities participating in the PRC Program. In addition to the University of Washington, these universities include:
Texas A&M University; University of California at Berkeley, University of Colorado at Denver, University of Illinois at Chicago, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, University of Pittsburgh, University of South Carolina, and West Virginia University.

PARTNERSHIP WITH THE GEORGIA MENTAL HEALTH FORUM

This year, we are fortunate to be able to offer our conference in partnership with the Rosalynn Carter Georgia Mental Health Forum. Collaborating with local and statewide advocacy, research, and service groups, the Georgia Mental Health Forum is one of two annual public policy forums on key mental health issues sponsored by The Carter Center Mental Health Program. The partnership between CDC’s Healthy Aging Research Network and the Forum will contribute to wide conference visibility among local, regional, and national agencies; draw on a diverse audience; and build on existing relationships between public health, aging services, and mental health partners. The opportunities for attendees to network, share conference knowledge, and develop specific action plans for screening and managing depression among older adults will further enrich these partnerships.

OBJECTIVES

After participating in the conference, participants will be able to:
1. Describe the roles community-based agencies play (i.e., screening for and managing depression) in addressing the impact of depression on morbidity and mortality in older adults.
2. Improve reach for targeting screening and treatment programs by identifying groups of older adults within settings with higher rates of depression.
3. Explain components of effective screening instruments, interventions (i.e., Cognitive Behavioral Therapy and Problem-Solving Treatment), and models of depression care management for older adults.
4. Describe several experiences of program implementation from the perspective of service providers and organizations that have implemented these programs.
5. Describe the infrastructure needed to successfully adopt depression care management in diverse settings.
6. Locate, employ, and evaluate tools, manuals and resources for successful training, dissemination and sustainability related to evidence-based depression care management programs across diverse settings and populations.
7. Develop a vision for community public health, aging services and mental health professionals helping to achieve a future without depression.

AUDIENCE

Attendees will represent professionals of the public health, aging services and mental health networks who are involved in, or may become involved in, the implementation of community- and evidence-based depression programs for older adults. Specifically, the target audience will include professionals responsible for implementing depression programs in a variety of settings including community centers; home, residential, and adult day care settings; and other venues. Also included will be policy makers and champions for public health, aging services, and mental health programs, researchers interested in translational work, graduate students and trainees in the fields of public health, aging, and mental health, and others involved in the dissemination and sustainability of community-based programs. Community teams of providers, administrators, and other champions of depression screening and management are encouraged to attend together.

DAY 1: MONDAY, MAY 19, 2008

7:30 am  Registration, Networking and Continental Breakfast

8:00 am  Welcome and Conference Overview
  Basia Belza, Mark Snowden, Lynda Anderson

8:15 am  Laying the Foundation: Part 1
  Community-Based Depression Care Management for Older Adults
  Jurgen Unützer

  This session will address the significance and context of community-based depression care management for older adults. Included will be a focus on the benefits of community-based agencies’ adoption of evidence-based management interventions and programs. Also discussed will be the impact of untreated depression on comorbid conditions. Findings from a project funded by CDC’s Healthy Aging Program will be highlighted. These findings include identification of effective screening measures and depression care interventions.

Laying the Foundation: Part 2
Using Evidence to Inform Mental Health Policy
Benjamin Druss

This session will address current challenges and opportunities for using evidence to inform mental health policy decisions. This presentation will examine how researchers and policymakers view evidence and how it should be used. Included will be a discussion of researcher and policymaker partnership opportunities for improving mental health policy across the country.

9:45 am  Break

10:00 am  Exemplars from the Community:
  Making a Successful Link between Research and Practice
  Lloyd Sederer, Eve Heeman Byrd, Shirley Miller

  The purpose of this session is to highlight success stories from community-based agencies that have made the commitment to adopt depression care management programs. These presentations from New York and Georgia will focus on the recognition by these presenters and their organizations of the extent of the prevalence and impact of depression in their populations, and their role in addressing the problem. The focus will be on context, such as the burden of depression in their communities, and obstacles to getting interventions in place.

11:00 am  Screening for Depression: Part 1
  Assessing Treatment Outcomes and Strategies for Referrals and Linkages
  Mark Snowden

  The purpose of this session is to highlight the value of screening and selected evidenced-based measures used to screen for depression and depression outcomes in older adults. These measures include: CES-D (Center for Epidemiological Studies Depression Scale), CES-D-10, GDS (Geriatric Depression Scale), GDS-15, PHQ-2 (Patient Health Questionnaire), and the SDS (Zung Self-Rating Scale). This session will also provide strategies for monitoring providers and clients who participate in screening, as well as for making effective linkages and referral to treatment following screening. The speaker will address culture-specific screening, screening of people with cognitive impairments, and using measures that are yet to be validated for your population.
Screening for Depression: Part 2
Lessons Learned from Using Depression Screening Measures
Nancy Wilson

The purpose of this session is to describe how community agencies have implemented depression screening measures and lessons learned in the process. Included in this session will be information about National Depression Screening Day, strategies to secure reimbursement for screening, and protocols for staff training.

12:00 pm Lunch (provided)

1:00 pm SMALL GROUP DISCUSSIONS
Tracks have been created for service providers (SP), administrators (A), and policy makers and funders (P/F). Attendees will be able to join a group of their choice.
A1. Culture Specific Screening (SP) Louise Quijano
A2. Screening People with Cognitive Impairments (SP) Phil Harvey
A3. Strategies for Locating Groups of Older Adults with Depression (SP) David Turner
A4. Policy Implications of Data Obtained from Screening Measures (P/F) Mark Trail, Maria Greene, Doris Clanton
A5. Getting Funders to Fund Screening Measures (P/F) Pam Piering
A6. Using Evidence to Inform Mental Health Policy (A, P/F) Benjamin Druss
A7. Antidepressant Management, Adherence, and Other Issues for Non-Prescribers (SP, A) Jurgen Unützer

2:00 pm Break

2:40 pm SMALL GROUP DISCUSSIONS
B1. Addressing Fear Factors: Assuring Organizational Readiness (A) Lloyd Sederer
B2. Liability: Various Perspectives and the Misconceptions Related to the Use of Screening Tools (A, SP) William McDonald, Harry Strothers, Cynthia Wainscott
B3. Getting Older Adults in the Door: Strategies to Set the Tone (SP) David Turner
B4. Technical Assistance and Supervisory Issues (A) Esther Steinberg
B5. Overcoming Stigma in Older Adults and Their Providers (SP, A) Chris Marshall

4:00 pm Break

4:20 pm SAMHSA Resources Toolkit: Implementing Evidence-based Programs for Depression in Older Adults Steve Bartels

5:00 pm Break and Networking

5:30 pm Dinner and Keynote Speakers
Former First Lady Rosalynn Carter and Thomas Bornemann

7:00 pm Visit the Museum of the Jimmy Carter Library OR Return to Hotel
Shuttle service back to the hotel will be available at 7 pm and 9 pm.

The Museum of the Jimmy Carter Library includes photographs and historical memorabilia from the Carter presidency (1976 - 1981). An exact replica of the Oval Office and gifts received by the Carters are also featured. A permanent exhibit of significant events occurring during Jimmy Carter's life and political career includes photographs with interpretative text. The museum will be open for attendees of our conference from 7 pm to 9 pm. Admission to the museum is included as part of your conference registration.

A. PRC-HAN Research to Practice Panel

Panel on Exemplars from the Community: Making a Successful Link between Research and Practice, and Adaptation Strategies for CBT/PST to Aging and Social Service Personnel

Pam Piering, Mark Snowden, Nancy Wilson

This panel session will focus on real-world experiences and practical considerations for implementing evidence-based depression programs with community-based older adults. Ms. Piering will share her experience adopting the PEArLS depression care management program in Seattle King County’s Area Agency on Aging. Dr. Snowden will discuss PEArLS implementation experiences from his perspective supervising PEArLS counselors. Ms. Wilson will address common barriers and success stories from her experience implementing the Healthy IDEAS depression care management intervention in community-based case management settings.

B. Georgia Mental Health Forum (GMHF) Breakout Sessions

Multiple small breakout sessions will allow persons working in similar agencies and who work with similar older adult populations to network and share their organization’s approach to improving the recognition of depression in older adults and to develop action steps for putting conference learnings into practice at their agencies.

2:00 pm Break

2:20 pm Reconvene: Report Back and Action Plans

Attendees of the GMHF breakout sessions and the PRC-HAN panel session will come together to report back on their discussions and commit to their action plans based on what they have learned during the conference.
